Reasons for support or oppose Although I don't own horses and never have, and I do fear for the safety of the general public regarding horses being loose and unsupervised in the town I don't think a general ban is the way to go. This disadvantages those responsible owners who do give a damn about their animals. A survey should be done, how many horses do reside in town, where are they kept, who owns them then tagging of some sort and a register. Alot of owners think that a paddock of grass is sufficient food for horses and don't even bother to water them...that's all.
